Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Saturday 16 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Wintry at first, turning milder.

Today:
A band of rain, preceded by some snow, will clear quickly eastwards this morning, leaving a covering of snow across East Anglia. Brighter weather following, with showers affecting northwestern parts. Windy for many, with temperatures closer to average than recently.

Tonight:
Breezy with showers across northwestern and central areas. Mostly dry in the south and east with clear spells and a patchy frost.

Sunday:
Southern and eastern parts dry with sunny spells. Showers affecting the northwest, with a spell of more persistent rain later.

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Unsettled, rather mild and windy with rain at times, heavy in the west. Colder for Scotland with some hill snow. Gales in the south, and later in the north.
